A Nervous Wreck at 46—A Mirace of Strength subdivision, are pending in court after having been authorized by ordinance. and Vitality at 50—Taking Iron Did It

Doctor says Nuxated Iron is greatest of all strength builders—Often increases the strength and endurance of delicate, nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and as full of health, strength and vitality as a young man; in fact a young man he really was notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nusated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 30 he was in bad health; at 46 he was careworn and nearly all in. Now at 50, after taking fluxated iron, a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a himded times over iron is the greatest of all strength builderis. If people, would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated tron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved, who now die every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, ed. The real and true cause which started their diseases was nothing more or less than a weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient in iron. If you are not strong or well you ove it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of persons, run-down people who are alling all the while, double their strength and the serve of principle of your and you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Little Playhouse Company Gives First Production Anywhere of "Golden Apple." Those who attended the Little Playvates of the First Regiment at

Judging from the comments heard in the audience, different ones had different degrees of success in attaining the state of mind which was recommended. The play will be presented Saturday afternoon before an audience of chil-dren following two more performances for grown-ups.

"The Golden Apple" was written by Lady Gregory of the Abbey Theater, Dublin. Its characters include a witch who turns people into fishes and cats; a spoiled debutante, the witch's daughter: a captive princess with golden hair; a languid giant who cannot so much as utter a hearty "fee, fi," let alone a "fo, fum;" a gardener who talks with the birds; a King who is kept alive by doses of medicine, administered from a big wooden spoon every five minutes; a doctor who has to stand by with the spoon until the golden apple of healing is brought; and a prince who goes on a journey of a year and a day, to get the apple. a captive princess with golden hair; a

It all happened in Ireland, and the characters spoke such curious sentences as these: "It is to give up using so much mast you should." "If is to give up as you should." as these: "It is to give up using so much meat you should;" "It is to fight him you must;" and "Is it that you think to die he done? He did not." This production of "The Golden Apple," it was announced, was the first on any stage. Next Wednesday night a two-act drama, "An Eye for an Eye," adapted from the Rumanian by Oscar Leonard, will be played.

The Phonograph You Will Enjoy Better a Year From Now - the

AEOLIAN-VOCALION

When you buy a phonograph you make an important purchase. You buy a musical instrument you expect to live with for many years to come. It's worth giving some thought to. You want to be dead sure that the phonograph you finally select will give the same keen joy a year hence that it does on the day you buy it.

When you select a Vocalion you'll find that you will enjoy it more every day, every year, that you have it. Because it is the one phonograph over which you have any control; the one phonograph that you can play, like you do other musical instruments; the one phonograph that becomes a part of you by permitting you to put your own feeling, your own expression, into the music. So don't buy any phonograph until you have played the Vocalion; until you fully understand how the Graduola makes phonograph music an ever growing

Be Fair With the Police.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I, as a friend of the police of the city of St.
Leuis, appeal to you to express your opinion of the conditions in this city today.

One of the morning newspapers (also an evening contemporary) seems to delight in just knocking and handing it to the police whenever the opportunity affords. For instance:

An officer meets two or three young men on a fewntown corner at an early hour an the morning, attempts to question them as to their reasons for being out at that hour, and when one of them runs, does not halt at his command, and he is compelled to go to the extreme to arrest the suspect, all. his action is severely criticised on one page of the paper, and on the next the department is again are brought to task for not stopping the crime wave.

Afterwards it developed that one of the young men had been robbing his employer—a man is judged by the people with whom he associates.

Also an officer finds a man robbing a bread

bex. he attempts to arrest the thief, who runs, takes refuge in a hall, and when the officer walks into the dark hall, is knocked down by the cuiprit and compelled to use his club; the officer is severely criticised for his hasty action in clubbing an old man, stealing because he is starving. It is not necessary to starve in this city with our many public institutions.

Again, the policeman asks a suspect (later found Again, the policeman asses a suspect (later found to be a minister) to raise his hands, the suspect refuses after being commanded to do so four times. The officer believing he has a desperate character to deal with, acts accordingly, and, as afraid. usual, is criticised for his action, and further on in the paper the usual every morning protest against the crime wave appears. Let us not for-get the instances in the past where police have lest the instances in the past where police have lest their lives for taking chances with suspects. the City Art Museum 30 of the paintings out of counties in the United States, which can have no sides of the condition? Why criticise for not doing what is termed too hasty an action in face of the crime being committed every night? An honest man will not run from an officer. He knows he is his friend, and should an officer stop him satisfy suspicion the officer is simply proving to this man that he is striving to protect him and clean out the bad men. If all crooks knew that the command of an officer must be obeyed, or suffer the consequences, there would be less crime. An honest man will assist and not hinder his protector. It is every policeman's aim to arrest a desperate character and thus earn the commendation of his superiors and a way to promotion

Taxing Small Incomes.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I enclose clipping showing that it is proposed to levy a 2 per cent tax on all incomes over $600 a year. It seems strange with the high tax rate and special taxes, the State can not make both ends meet. When the working people are imposed on by fat job holders who draw a great deal more pay than any working man can, it is time to look for a home in a different state.

A Pointer From Kansas.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. Sotto-voce remarks in Kansas newspapers some-times reveal things about Kansas prohibition that her society of prohibition boosters does not tell away from home. In the Salina (Kan.) Union of Dec. 16, 1916, appears this paragraph:
"The State is waiting to hear something abou

the inforcement of the prohibitory law in those led as necessities of life. Gov. Capper has used the prohibitory law as a political argument and asset for a good many years. It is lime for him to realise that the people of Kansas are in favor of a dry State, not in sections, but all ese remarks will come as a shock to tho These remarks will come as a shock to those centributers of the Anti-Saloon League "warchest" who have accepted without qualification wonderful stories about prohibition in Kansas.

Possibly they reveal the real reason for the recent erganisation of a pranch of the Anti-Saloon Lague in Kansas after that State has been in the prehibition column for some 26 years. Ver truly yours, T. M. GILMORE, President National Model License League.

Is There a Perfect Brain?

Is There a Perfect Brain?
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few days ago in one of the evening papers was the picture of a young man who the late frof. Muonsterberg said had a perfect brain and to possess flawless mantal powers. Is that overdrawn? Is it possible for him to weigh the understanding, the comprehension, responsiveness to learning—any more than he could weigh the qualities of the soul and make his standard of perfection—I am deeply interested in the matter, as I write myself along ethical and physiological line.

Int. EDGAR 2. SOMMERS.

AS TO MR. LANSING.

The "leak" inquiry of the House Committee or Rules has failed to develop anything except rumors and gossip. Not one definite charge has been sustained nor one name mentioned in which proof of improper conduct has been submitted.

The inquiry did, however, bring to light an act carelessness on the part of Secretary Lansing which might have been the source of disastrous eakage and caused consequences which he himself wanted to avoid.

His conference with newspaper correspondents in which he notified them confidentially that the President's peace note had been sent and warned them against publicity on account of its possible effect on Wall street was held in the presence of three outsiders, one of whom was a business man and none of whom was under the obligation of confidence and secrecy. The misuse of the information is denied by the men who were present, but the possibility of disastrous consequences contrary to the very intent of the Secretary can not Following Mr. Lansing's extraordinary statement in connection with the President's peace note which had to be corrected immediately to avoid false impressions, this incident forces a question concerning Mr. Lansing's judgment and discretion. A mistake in connection with so delicate a matter as the note concerning peace terms, in which the President was treading on eggs, sems incredible and unpardonable. To overlook the presence of outsiders in a confidential conference in which the Secretary warned newspaper correspondents against publicity seems inexplicable except on the ground of indiscretion.

President Wilson is his own Foreign Minister, but he has been unfortunate in his subordinates. Mr. Bryan scrambled the eggs in both German and Mexican diplomatic dealings and Mr. Lansing shows a decided disposition to spill the beans. Are there not risks enough in our delicate foreign relations without adding the danger of blunders in the home office?

In the United States every year there is enough waste to enrich a continent.

"BUFFALO BILL."

The death of "Buffalo Bill" virtually marks the passing of a heroic and picturesque clan. He was almost the last survivor of those buckskin-tough, hard-bitten American plainsmen who made Indian fighting and scouting their profession. They were a sturdy breed and their country is proud ters of Niagara should have been between Messrs

"Buffalo Bill's" name will live as long as there are healthy American boys to read about his exploits. Even older folk, while they will at times smile at the gusto with which he related his adventures, will not forget that, in spite of his little did things. They will overlook the touch of braggadocio in his stories of how he killed his first Indian when a boy of 11 and how he knifed and scalped Chief Yellow Hand in a duel to the death. when they remember that he performed man-size service for his country as scout under Gens.

THE CATLIN GIFT.

In giving to the people of St. Louis through Catlin has not only merited the gratitude of the community in which the family fortune was made, but she has set for the rich people of St. Louis an example of the highest possible type.

The people have themselves indicated their understanding of the meaning of art to the city by voting the tax with which the Art Museum is maintained and kept abreast of such institutions in other American cities. To enrich the Museum with such gifts as the $250,000 worth of pictures given as a memorial to her husband by Mrs. Cat lin is an opportunity to wealth beyond which there is nothing nobler or more enduring in community life.

The ultimate destiny of all fine art is to be come the common property of men. It is chiefly by the generosity of the rich that this is made possible today in America, where we have not yet brought governments into this field of usefulness as they have in Europe. Mrs. Catlin has done for us what we are not yet ready to do for ourselves.

Caste keeps men out of the army according to an officer testifying before a Senate committee. Caste is what keeps them in the army in Europe.

EFFECT OF WEBB-KENYON DECISION.

The chief effect of the Supreme Court decision upholding the Webb-Kenyon law will be to absolutely prohibit the shipment of intoxicants into dry states for use or sale, contrary to the laws of the state to which shipment is attempted.

But several dry states have liberal shipment exemptions. For example, Arkansas, Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine and North Dakota place no limit upon shipments for personal use. In Ala- a veracious chronicler, stopped in silent wonde bama the user of intoxicants may have shipped when they observed a group of besashed, banto him a gallon of spirituous liquor, or 4 gallons ner-carrying women picketing the White House of wine, or 10 gallons of beer or ale, within any in behalf of woman suffrage. It is not hard to four weeks. Georgia is nearly as liberal; so is understand their amazement. The untutored red North Carolina. Oklahoma puts no limit on man is not so untutored as he once was, but it shipments for personal use, but possession at one must be rather astonishing to him to find the time of over a gallon is prima facie evidence of Great White Father besieged on his own reservaintent to evade the law. Other dry states that tion in such a manner. permit more or less liberal shipment for personal use are Arizona (under a recent State Supreme | might as well begin schooling himself. Some day dry states want to drink, but want to do it in moderation. The Webb-Kenyon law will not bother them greatly.

THE BELGIAN DEPORTATIONS. Dr. Richard Cabot of Boston is doing good work for humanity in his visit to St. Louis and other leading American cities to arouse sympathy for the deported Belgians. The Post-Dispatch has expressed its condemnation of these deportations as a revival of slavery.

Even if it were true that the deportations had been carried out without unnecessary barbarity, the wrong done to the people of Belgium would be without a shadow of justification. The act of deportation is the wrong.

The invasion of Belgium was, as Chancellor von Bethman-Holweg admitted, "a breach of international law." As to Belgium's attitude towards Germany before the war, it was Count von Jagow who said; on Aug. 3, 1914, that "Germany has nothing to reproach Belgium with and the attitude of Belgium has always been correct."

It is to be hoped that Dr. Cabot will succ in getting from the people of St. Louis and the other American cities he visits a strong protest to the German Government against the course of its agents in Belgium. Every coercive step they have taken there has been, on their own admission, illegal. And the forcible carrying into captivity of so many thousand helpless Belgian civilians is the climax of a crime against civilization. It adds barbarity to injustice.

If the action of the American people does no go beyond moral protest it will be effective. The protest will express the moral judgment of the civilized world on an act of medieval savagery No nation can stand against this judgment in war or peace. It is what Bismarck calls the "weight of the imponderables," which is greater than material weight-than armies and navies.

The Government which does not heed this moral judgment pays the penalty of condemnation and hostile sentiment when good will is most needed. The protest will find a response in the heart of the German people.

ECONOMY IN KANSAS.

The Kansas Senate, with 40 members, has 80 employes on its payroll. The Missouri Senate, with six fewer members, will have 200. Where the Kansas Senate finds itself able to struggle along with two employes to each member, the Missouri Senate must have six.

In both states the great problem of the legislative year is economic reform. It is to be hoped that the relative beginnings the two senatorial bodies have made is not to be indicative of the outcome in Missouri.

It seems peculiarly fitting that most of the debate in the National House of Representatives the other day, on a bill to divert some of the wa-Flood and Rainey.

TWO BAD BILLS.

Bills denying the use of the mails under severe penalties to any newspaper, circular or other publication or missive of any sort containvanities and his theatricality, he was a man who ing an advertisement of intoxicants have been reported favorably in both houses of Congress.

In the Senate, the Bankhead bill prohibits advertisements of the sort from being sent from any part of the United States into any state or territory whose own laws make it unlawful to advertise intoxicants. The Randall bill in the House is even more sweeping. It prohibits these advertisements from being sent to any other than a "lawfully licensed manufacturer or dealer in such liquors."

Thus, newspapers and publications generall containing advertisements of even the mildes beverages are under the terms of this bill no 'lawfully licensed manufacturers or dealers" but in all other portions of the entire country are undeliverable to persons not engaged in the liquor business. The invalidity of these measures, so apparent under earlier decisions, cannot be affirmed with full confidence in the light of present judicial views. If, so far as they affect newspapers, both are not an unwarranted interference with the liberty of the press, it would be difficult to define what would be an unwarranted interfer-

Both make it a crime to commit to the mails advertisements of a business which, in a great area of the country, is still a lawful business, ac corded official recognition and made a subject of taxation. The Bankhead bill assumes the validity of state enactments relative to advertise ments whose constitutionality even under state laws is still in grave doubt. But whether or not they attempt legislation outside the power of Congress, both Bankhead and Randall bills are inexpedient and fatuous from the standpoint of public policy. They sub ject the individual to intolerable official interference and espionage. They are inspired by the idea that that government is best which governs most, not least. The Valhalla of bad bills should be their resting place.

There is nothing unneutral in the $50,000,000 American loan to Germany. All nations mus now come to us for money.

DEAD HANDS.

(This poem, written by the late Lieut. Ivan Heald after the withdrawal from Gallipoli, is one of the few war poems published in England that have made any lasting impression. It has just been reprinted in the London Express.)

O quietly we left our trench That night, yet this I know—As we stole down to Sedd-el-Bahr Our dead mates heard us go:

As I came down the Boyau Nord A dead hand touched my sleeve, A dead hand from the parapet Reached out and plucked my sleeve

"Oh, little I thought," a voice did say, 'That ever a lad of Tyne Would leave me alone in the cold trench side.

And him a mate of mine."

The dawn was springing on the Mills, 'Twas time to put to sea, But all along the Boyau Nord A dead voice followed me;

"Oh, what is toward, O mate o' mine, That ye pass with muffled tread, And there comes no guard for the firing trench,

The trench won by your dead?"

We sailed away from Sedd-el-Bahr. We are sailing home on leave, But this I know-through all the years Dead hands will pluck my sleeve.

The Mexican bandit waded into the Rio Grande and started to shin his way across the River, treading water as he trod, his trusty gun held high above the raging torrent. He did not see Isadora Duncan dancing in the shade of the river side, or hear Sousa's band playing "Pretty Baby" nearby. He did not.

The best way to judge of any athletic game is by looking through its "don'ts." In hockey, these outnumber those of any other sport we can think of, at this moment. The "don'ts," it will be remembered, are the things that are DONE all the time, only some of them are detected and penalized. Others escape.

Here are some of the more important rules pertaining to what a hockey player may not do:

Reactionaries and "Athletic" Faction Expected to Fight New Regime.

The Missouri Athletic Association has discontinued its practice of issuing "tryout" cards to prospective members of its athletic teams and by such action has virtually sounded the death knell of competitive athletics on a big scale, locally.

Recipients of a "try-out" card we.se allowed the privileges of the club until such time as they had proved worthy, or unworthy, of an athletic membership. "Athletic members" pay dues of his year, as against 200 a year for the "regular" members.

Abolition of the "try-out" card practice took effect last week without any complaint from the so-called "athletic element." A comfortable majority of the members, it is understood, favored the action taken more than a month ago by the board of governors, at the suggestion of the Athletic Committee.

The latter committee is composed of Carl Schwartz, chairman; W. B. Wills, Edward Bornmueller, Nat Maguire and Lou Jones. Their efforts, early in the life of the new organization, to make the athletic equipment of the club for "members only," met with many stormy protests. However, sentiment has lately changed and the Athletic Committee now has the earnest support of a majority of the members, it is believed.

The Post-Dispatch Daily Short Story.

The Fifteenth Night

By Ray Giles.

T was the late part of an early apring night. The quiet air was heavy with odors of young yes and moist, newly spaded wer beds. Some hours ago the on had left the sky, and now only a few of the more ambitious stars remained to peer through the envelope of rich mist which glued in-side its flap Patrolman Bennett, si-ence and spring.

For the fifteenth time in 15 nights Patrolman Bennett turned things over in his mind. Each night had been exactly like its brothers—dead, peaceful, beautiful—nights which exasperated him. For sergeant's chevrons are not won amidst nocturnal monotony near upper Bronx Park.

Yet must ambition's stirrings un-er the Constable's shield turn velvet night into a world dominating blue-coat with Jupiter, Saturn, Mars and Venus for brass buttons? Is the star-venus for brass buttons? Is the star-venus for brass buttons? Is the star-venus for brass buttons? Is the star-son grasped ready to whang Mother Earth into meteorites at her slight-est uprising? Let us hope not.

Melvin Bennett was not entirely hardened. Fourteen nights of pon-dering had brought him very close to spring. And now, walking along.

again.

As Melvin stepped down at a corner he heard rising clear above the persistent stillness the call of a whippoorwill. A whippoorwill, just whippoorwill. A whippoorwill, just as he heard it on the night he left as he heard it on the hight he left bors and the farm. She had turned to him, saying, "And you'll be back in the spring, Melvin, and we'll hear the first whippoorwill together."

She was still waiting for him to come and marry her. "And here it's most two years," he reflected sober-

As soon as things could be arranged as would go home. He would go straight to Dora. They would be married immediately. For 14 nights he had realize that he ought to do this. Tonight had Quickening his step he reached the end of his beat and turned about. Down he went, past the Presbyterian church, past the doctor's house with its ready light, past the academy lifting its walls traight and bare into the early dawn. When again came a whippoorwill's call.
